LeiKa Autoimmunity Summer School

Basic concepts and clinical challenges in SLE & ANCA-associated vasculitis

The LeiKa summer school will focus at teaching the daily clinical practice of severe systemic autoimmune disease. The severe forms of systemic autoimmune diseases have specific challenges to the treating physician including knowledge on the basic immunological concepts, clinical tools to address acute manifestations and skills to optimally perform as a multidisciplinary team.

Goals:

1. Optimizing care for patients with systemic autoimmune disease, notably acute and severe presentations.
2. Optimizing knowledge on basic immunology underpinning autoimmunity
3. To raise awareness of the need for multi-disciplinary care, collaboration and consultation by medical specialists

Who can apply?

Medical young professionals, including residents (year 5-6) and specialists, with specific interest in autoimmunity from the fields within Internal Medicine, Rheumatology, Pulmonology, Dermatology, ENT medicine, Ophthalmology, Cardiology, Intensive Care
